We create our lives the best we can through other peoples experiences and discoveries; our parents, teachers, school, workplace, the Internet, noted Gurus and a host of other input resources. Sometimes we have a core experience that leaves us questioning everything we have been taught. We dust off the old worn out ways of the known and step towards a newness that seems to pull us to The Dream.

Who is there to help you?

Can it last or do you fall back to the familiar?

What does Dowsing have to do with anything?

Recently, Hubble lingered on an empty segment of our known galaxy and discovered possibly 50 billion new galaxies in that 'empty' space.

Imagine what is waiting to be discovered within your own mind.

As a Dowser, we have an amazing family of experts, all willing and able to share their understandings. If not in your immediate arena, there are books and the Internet. Better still, there is your inner self, spiritual guides and, of course, the Universal Source Itself.

What is your next step?

I have been dowsing daily since 1970. The first 15 years without meeting another dowser.

I formed habits that were both extraordinarily good and some not so well done. I feel that it is important to have a 'system' to work. A system you can trust. Dowsing is a personal experience whereas a system or technique is a shared experience.
